We've all been adapting to a changing world. Here at the Hospice we've been adapting too. We're now seeing over 200 patients in their homes in North Edinburgh alone through our virtual hospice service.

As we have changed the way we work, we have held to our core values of care, compassion, partnership, respect and trust. They are central to what makes up our Hospice culture across our services, helping us to meet challenges and work together.

This year our Summer Appeal focuses on community and how our values touch many aspects of life across Edinburgh and East Lothian, through our dedicated staff, our volunteers, our compassionate communities and our fantastic supporters. Your support has helped us reach our community despite the obstacles we've been confronted with by COVID-19.

Roddy has been supported to live with his condition by our Hospice at Home Team in the comfort of his own home. Roddy says he has felt 'a sense of security' since being under the care of the Hospice. To find out more about Roddy's journey and the support our Hospice at Home Team offer, please watch our video at stcolumbashospice.org.uk/summer-appeal-2021
